JEWETT CITY
Postmaster and Mrs. D. F. Finn are at home after an eight day automobile trip to Quebec and other points of interest in Canada and New York state. Through Albany and Ellsborough to Saratoga Springs where they enjoyed a delightful visit with Rev. Patrick F. Scully.

Father Scully was a Jewett City boy and received his first education in the local schools. He now is pastor at Saratoga Springs, with a large church, and parish, and has the assistance of two curates.

Ausable Chasman and the Adirondack with a call at Lake Placid and Saratoga Lake were next included. The great health resort was crowded with patients, many of whom were young men. In passing through the game regions, many hunters were encountered, with their deer strapped to their running boards of their machines.

At Montreal a call was made on two other Jewett City people, Mrs. Victor L. Bunker and his daughter, Mrs. Lucia Bunker. A fine line covered the 131 miles to Quebec, with a stop at the Chateau Frontenac, with its old castle appearance, high up overlooking the broad St. Lawrence river, with a large church, and to find a king or two stopping there, but there was nothing doing. Second to no other point of interest was St. Ann De Baupre, and a visit to the world's greatest shrine, Home via St. Johnsbury, Vt., and Springfield, 1485 miles, all without car trouble of any kind.

Local fox hunters have been looking the ground over, and are only waiting for the first fall of snow, when they say some of the finest sport ever is promised.

Reports from the outlying districts are to the effect that foxes are unusually plenty and very bold. Several have been seen in the road up in the great Stone Hill district, which is the fox stronghold in this section.

Stories told of the fox digging expeditions that used to take place over in Lisbon and the south part of Canterbury are of much interest. Two men dug out twelve fox pups and three cubs on the same day. As local fox hunters of more than ordinary note, the late Henry Reed and Wm. C. Bliven stood
